WHY COL. ROOSEVELT DIDN'T GO

CATCH HIM HELPING TO OVER-AWE THE SENATE.

Or if Overawing Was Not the Programme and the Treatles Unamended the Text, Why. Unamended They Are Not Very Important. Though Sincere

The agitated breasts of those who have been stirred by the puzzle "If he won't, why won't he?" were soothed yesterday when Millard J. Bloomer, executive secretary of the peace dinner, gave out the correspondence he has had with Col. Roosevelt about the Colonel's attendance at the dinner. The Colonel refuses to countenance the dinner by attending when he doesn't approve of the Taft universal peace treaties which are now be fore the Senate.

The Colonel was invited on November 18 in a letter from Mr. Bloomer in which Col. Roosevelt was assured that the dinner would be incomplete without him. On December 5, Mr. Bloomer received this

My DEAR MR. BLOOMER: I am sorry to say that I cannot permit the use of my name for that Citizens' Peace Banquet, simply because I do not know what the ban-quet is for. If it is meant to overawe the Senate and for that body against its con-science to support the unamended treaties which the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has shown by unanswerable argument to be hostile to the honor and argument to be hostile to the honor and interest of the American people, then I am not in sympathy with you. For instance, if you propose to support the arbitration treaties unamended, then I think that you are not merely wrong but that you are engaged in what is essentially an unworthy, and, however unconsciously, a hypocritical move against the interest of peace and against the honor and interest of the United States and of civilization. of the United States and of civilization If you intend to support these treaties however, with the amendments introduced by Senators Root and Lodge, then you are all right, because you are supporting what s a not very important but still sincere effort to make things a little better. Hypocrisy never pays, and to announce in treaties that we intend to arbitrate everything when no human being in his senses imagines that this country would arbitrate every-thing is to put us in a position of revolting duplicity. The use of the word "justiciable in no way helps the matter, in such a treaty the word is meaningless, for it can be defined in any way that either party chooses.

The Savonia has been battling with tions of Governmental policy, then we should make the assertion clearly in the treaty and not put on an appearance of shuffling and double dealing. As a nation we should not make a promise which we Prof. Carver Says Excessive Litigation have not the slightest intention of keeping.

I nderstand me, I heartily favor peace.

I have stood for every movement of real peace. I am against these arbitration treaties because they do not tend for real the statement made by Prof. T. M. Carver.

WASHINGTON. Dec. 30.—A good deal of interest was expressed here to-day in the statement made by Prof. T. M. Carver.

Says Excessive Litigation due in normal weather yesterday. She sailed from Liverpool on December 23 and from Queenstown the next day. She interest was expressed here to-day in the statement made by Prof. T. M. Carver. besition of hypocritical insincerity. The very men who back them with such enthusiasm would be the first to repudiate them the minute something for which they care was involved in any concrete case. An exact example of what I mean is furnished by the New York Times. That paper has clamored for the passage of the unamended arbitration treaties and has furiously attacked all those who oppose them. But in its editorial antagonizing my proposal to determine by arbitration the exact meaning of a clause in our treaty with Russia, it says: "The simple and sufficient answer to this argument is that we cannot submit the question to arbitration because we could not accept and abide by an adverse finding of the tribunal. " " We ask could not be shown by the decision of an arbitrate out thow wrong her position is.

Yet the New York Times, the same paper that has been clamoring for the unamended arbitration which promises to arbitrate everything, promptly repudiates the first proposal for arbitration which comes in arguing against the submission to arbitration even of a given clause of an already existing treaty, while I do not believe that it justly applies as against the proposal I made, most emphatically does apply with entire justice against passing the with entire justice against passing the unamended arbitration treaties. There could be no clearer proof of the thoroughly mischievous position of seeming false deal-ing into which we would be put by the pass-age of these unamended treaties than is thus afforded by the attitude of one of the news-papers that has most ardently championed their cause, the minute that a concrete uestion of arbitration arises.

Admiral Mahan claims, undoubtedly truthfully, that the Monroe Doctrine is "justiciable" and would have to be arbitrated under the treaty. Of course it is exactly as justiciable as any other position which we might be asked to arbitrate, and under the unamended treaties any nation. under the unamended treaties any nation would be within its right if it demanded that we should arbitrate the Monroe Doc

Do you believe that the Monroe Doctrine should be arbitrated? I do not. There-fore I wish it explicitly excluded from arbitration under the treaty, or else I wish some general clause put in which would exclude it and other matters of governmental policy or matters vital to the honor and interest of this nation. Do you believe that the State bonds should be abitrated? I do not. Do you believe that the question as to whether we have the right to abrogate our treaty with Rusthe right to abrogate our treaty with Russia if she persists in doing injustice to our Jewish fellow citizens shall be arbitrated? I do not, although I should be glad to give Russia the chance of being shown that her interpretation of the treaty is incorrect. If the Russian interpretation is correct, I should hold that proof positive that the old treaty must be abrogated and a new treaty negotiated. Do you believe that we should arbitrate the question of allowing unlimited Asiatic immigration to this country? I do not. Now if you do not believe that the questions I have named should be arbitrated then you occupy an Improper and from the national standpoint a dishonorable position if you desire to see these treaties ratified without amendment. Of course if you do believe in arbitrating all questions of national honor and interest, including the Monroe Doctrine, the Jewish passport question, the immigration of Asiatles and the question of the State bonds, then you are justified in wishing to pass the unamended treaties, although I think that in such case you will occupy a very foolish and unpatricities. sia if she persists in doing injustice to c although I think that in such case you will occupy a very foolish and unpatriotic position. But if you do not believe in arbitrating these and similar matters then you occupy a wholly indefensible position.

treaties which inquestionably piedge us as a nation to arbitrate them. Very truly yours.

THEODORE ROOSEVELY.

"When I got that letter from Col. Roose-telt I didn't know beans about the treaties." remarked Mr. Bloomer dolo-rously as he gave out the letter. Another of the Colonel's letters was to Stephen M. Griswold of the dinner committee, and said:

It seems to me worse than foolish, in short utterly hypocritical, now to support these arbitration treaties (unamended) when we occupied two positions utterly incompat-tible. They first of all announced that we People can sincerely believe, as I do, that it would arbitrate everything, even questions is right to abrogate the Russian treaty and of national honor and national interest, then, immediately that the practical question came up, they announced that of course they did not intend to arbitrate such mathematical properties of people can sincerely believe, as despatch received here from Mr. Hunt's they did not intend to arbitrate such mathematical properties of the unsupported by the such mathematical properties of the such mathematical properties of the support of the such mathematical properties of the support of t ters as the Monroe Doctrine or the immigration of Asiatics or the validity of State bonds, and so forth. Now these two attitudes made their position nonsensical as well as hypocritical. Either we, the American people, mean what we say or we don't.

If we mean what is now said, for instance, by the supporters of the unamended treates it is wrong to abrogate the Russian treaty to advocate the unamended arbitration treates and at the same time the abrogation of the Russian treaty. It puts us as a nation in a ridiculous and hypocritical position of the Russian treaty. He principle of the unamended to abank in this city. She gave no particulars of the accident.
